WHEELING, W. VA . APRIL 22 1884. WEST VIRGINIA CONVENTIONS.

First District-Moundaville, April 20. Fecond District-Murticaburg, April 30. Third District-Charles on, April 23. State Convention-Martin sourg. * pril 30 American Labor.

The debate on the bill, to establish a Bu reau of Labor Statistics brought out som singular reasons for opposing its pass age. Of course the points were made that the project was not constitutional; that it tak a from the States something or other waich it is well for them to have an which is rank "pizan" to the United State Government to gorge itself with; that i was in the line of the efforts of a certain party to centralize things generally and wipe out the glorious sovereignty of the States: that it could be of no service to the country; that it would be used to "bolste up the theories of the protective system."

There may be reasonable doubts as to whether a Bureau of Labor Statistics will result in practical benefit to the men and women who earn their living by manual labor: but none of the objections above noted will hold against it. The States are to be exercised by the National Government than it exerts now through the Agri cultural Department, or the Bureau of Statistics-the mere gathering of information Any citizen or any organization may do this without knocking down the safeguard of State sovereignty. The chief differ-ence is that a national bureau will gather the statistics of the whole country on one general plan, which is essential for a comprohensive view, and particularly so for purposes of comparison.

Seeing that the Agricultural Departmen has been of great advantage to the country not merely as a distributer of seeds, but as a gatherer and publisher of certain kinds of information; and bearing in mind the great usefulness of the work of the Bureau of Statistics, the INTELLIGENCER is encouraged to hope that the Labor Burgar would be of very great value. Those who are most interested ask for it, and if there is any chance of improving the condition of ten millions of men and women wage earners, it is a wise etatesmanship and a practical human ity to make the effort. Labor asks that the government enquire into the industrial and social condition of the toilers for day's wages, the cost and mode of living, the hours of work, the employment of children, the relations between labor and capital—in thort, labor wants to get at all the facts, that Congress may know what it is birds buckles, and heads of animals and brads of animals and brads. doing when it comes to touch the producere, and that the country may come to better understanding on the labor ques

Of course no such measure could pass the House without the free traders making a tariff point on it. They have been so unmercifully pounded with the hard facts of statistics drawn from the old world and the new that they would be glad to number arithmetic among the lest arts. Only nineteen members voted against the billthey were all Democrats, a hopeless minority-but enough to preserve intact the party record for opposition to every thing that favors American labor. A properly organized and well conducted centrated, in order to avoid milk fever. Bureau of Labor Statistics will of necessity show what protection has done and has yet to do for American labor, and it must strengthen the cause and increase the benefits of protection. The cost is small? and the experiment is well worth trying.

The Russian press, which under the short supremacy of Louis Melikoff, began to increese and multiply, has now under Count Tolstoi's government, shrunk to a miniaum. In St. Petersburg, with its improvement is permanent and lasting. Count Tolstol's government, shrunk to a miniaum. In St. Petersburg, with Hs million inhabitants, there are, besides the official Messenger and the Journal de St. Petersburg, only three Russian and two German newspapers. One of the former, the Newsti, has liberal tendencies; the two others are edited after a conservative Slavophil pattern. The two German newspapers content themselves with repeating what their Russian cotemporaries say. According to some curious statistics, Count Ignatien killed five newspapers during the year when he was Minister of the Interior, but Tolstol had in the course of two years slain nine. In the face of this, it is assonishing that there still are people who have the course to establish newspapers in Russia. Foreign newspapers, with the exception of the Danish, Nerwegian, Hungarian and Spanish, have all to pass the ordeal of the censorship, and some of them, mostly French, are sittogether prohibited in Russia. Elitors of newspapers, however, and foreign correspondents, on appealing to the ministry, are allowed to receive their papers unmutilated, but only on condition of promising nover to show these papers to any other mortal. Growing Small Fruits.

American Agriculturist.

Lat the determination once be made to have abundance of small fruita, all the rest is easy: To make a beginning, unless some friendly neighbor will lurnish plants, there must be a small outlay at the start. If only a few plants of each kind of fruit are procured to begin with, these can be increased very rapidly; indeed, some multiply themselves. No investment will bring such a large return in health and family comfort. large return in health and family comfort as that expended for the plants to stock a berry patch. Send to some reputable dealer for his catalogue, make a selection and send the order early. The express or mail will bring the plants in due time. When the bring the plants in due time. When the plants come there must be a place ready to receive them. Select the best land that can be found near the house. It is well to have it in sight, as tresspassers will be less apt to trouble it. It would be better to have prepared the soil for the patch last fall, but do it now, rather than postpone the garden for a whole year. Prepare the soil as well as yen know how with the means at hand. This means well-rotted manure and thorough working with the plow and harrow.

It is a little singular that so many of our public men are so near of an ace. Blaine was born in 1830, Allison in 1829, Windom in 1827. Garfield was younger than any of them, having been born in 1831. Sam Randall was born in 1831, Santor Ed. mands was born in the same year, Conkeing came into this nuworthy world in the same year, too. Flowers and feathers will again be worn n the same hat or bonnet.

Chenillo gauze enters into the composi-tion of many rich ball dresses. Embroidered talle holds its place among light materials for ball dresses. Few walking or visiting costumes are composed of woolen stuff only.

Cords and tassels again form parts of the ecorations of dressy costumes. Rows of very narrow velvet ribbon are sen upon new French parasols.

Gold and silver gossamer-like tissues ap-pear among millinery materials.

Bustles as big as a small balloon deform the female form divine this spring. Slate gray and copper color combine ad-airably in brocades and in millinery.

Lawn tennis and archery will be the pet outdoor sports at Newport this season. Crepe de chine and shot silk take the lead of all other fabrics for evening dresses. The long train is de rigneur for dinne toilets, except for young girls and bride left as free as they ever were to collect what facts they will. The Texas Wool Grover says: He who wishes to run sheep in Texas must purchase his lands. Don't let this be overlooked, ye prospectors. There are cheap lands but not free lands. Free grazing can be found in the western States and New Mexico and Arizons. Here it is different since the Legislature adjourned.

A good sheep does not consume more than a bad one, nor does it cost more to shear. The freight and charges on high-clars wool are not higher than those for the poorest fleece. It is, therefore, the production of high-clars wool which the flockmasters of the country, when it is the production of high-clars wool which the flockmasters of the country when it is supply the country when it is ters of the country should ever keep in view. American flockmasters cannot do better than to take these remarks as ad-dressed to themselves.

Sheep are proitable in several ways, says the Farmer's Call. First, from wool; second, from mutton, and third, from manure. The gain from the last source is not susceptible of change, whether the price of wool and mutton be high or low. A sheep gives returns in these items for its keeping, and in balancing the returns the gains from the accumulation of manure should be considered as well as the weight of fleece and or carcass. dressed to themselves.
